SECRETARY'S REPORT.

"While round us the many-hued halo is shed,
How dear are the living, how near are the dead!
One circle, scarce broken,— these waiting below,
Those walking the shores where the asphodels blow!"

CLASSMATES:—When the last Report was published, I had hoped to present another, as then promised, in five years; but the state of the class treasury did not seem to be such as would warrant the incurring of so great an expense, and in fact the present Report is undertaken only because so urgently asked for, and it is to be hoped that the necessary expenses will be met by an increased subscription to the Class Fund. The really pressing need of such an increase is alluded to elsewhere.

It will be found that the Report chronicles but few changes in the general record of our lives, and that these are mostly of progress and advancement in our several professions or occupations. It will also be seen that not a few are taking an active part in political life, and rendering good service in that important field of action.

During these seven years our circle has not remained unbroken. Stars have been placed against the names of seven, including some whose faces were almost always to be found at our class reunions, and whose genial presence will ever be missed. Butler died at home, and Hildreth among the Swiss Mountains, whither he had gone in the vain hope of saving a life already doomed; and only a few months later we were called upon to mourn the loss of Merriam. Within a year these three died of consumption, that insidious disease which has been so singularly fatal among us, having been the cause of twelve of the fourteen deaths which have occurred since our graduation. Two years later, after long periods of illness, Fisk and Hagar died. Of those who did not graduate with us, we have lost two, Davidson and Hare.

It was to me, as it will be to the Class, a matter of real pleasure once more to be able to record news from four of our non-graduated members (Haslett, Livermore, Lockwood, and Mackin), from whom no replies had been received at the time the last Report was published. The warm welcome with which those who did not graduate with us have been received, whenever they have appeared at our annual reunions, must have convinced them that the infrequency of their visits is our only cause of complaint.

At the request of a number of the Class, the degree of Bachelor of Arts, out of course, as a member of the Class of 1864, was conferred on Dean at the Commencement of 1881; so that the full number of graduates in the Class is ninety-nine.

It will be observed that in some cases events which happened prior to 1874, and which have already appeared in a printed Report, are here repeated. Such repetition is due to the fact that, since the last Report was published, I have been able to obtain either fuller details or have been informed of some error in the previous records. I hope that classmates will at once inform me of any errors in the present Report with a view to their future correction.

As in the past, I would again acknowledge my indebtedness to Sprague for valuable assistance in the preparation of the manuscript and the correction of the proofs of this Report, and my thanks to my classmates for their prompt replies to my circular.

With the earnest wish that this Report may still further strengthen the bond which binds us each to the other,

I remain very truly your classmate,

WILLIAM L. RICHARDSON.

Boston, June 30, 1881.

BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD OF GRADUATES.

GEORGE ABBOT. He resides in San Francisco, being a partner in the firm of E. Grisar & Co., San Francisco Wool Exchange.

He was married in Portland, Me., February 23, 1875, to Elizabeth Taylor Daveis, daughter of Frances Ellen (Gordon) and John Taylor Gilman Daveis.

A daughter, Ethel Daveis Abbot, was born in San Francisco, October 18, 1876.

FREDERIC POPE ANDERSON. For several years after his severe illness in 1872, he went to sea as passenger and surgeon, spending two seasons on the Mediterranean and making two journeys through California. In 1876, he sailed round the world. In the spring of 1878, he determined to leave Southern Ohio, the climate of which did not agree with him. Accordingly, he removed to Grosse Ile, Wayne County, Mich., where he has since resided, engaged in the care of his grounds and in hunting and fishing. Since he has given up his profession, and devoted himself to these out-door pursuits, his health has decidedly improved. In April, 1879, he was elected on the Republican ticket as Superintendent of Schools and Health Officer for the township of Monguagon.

WILLIAM HYDE APPLETON. He has resided in Swarthmore, Penn., since the last Report, as Professor of Greek and German in Swarthmore College. In 1878, he was chosen Vice-President of the College. He has obtained leave of absence for a year, and will sail for Europe July 2nd, where he will remain a year, passing the winter in Greece.

He is a member of the American Philological Association, and also of the Union League, Social Art and Penn Clubs of Philadelphia.

JOHN WYNKOOP ATWOOD. He is engaged in business in New York, as a wholesale dealer in coal.

He is a member of the Union League Club and the Harvard Club in New York.

JOHN PERRY BARRETT. He left Boston in December, 1875, to engage in business in Chicago, where he remained until the fall of 1876. He then entered the Theological Seminary in Chicago, from which he graduated in May, 1877. He was called, December, 1877, to take charge of a church in Manchester, Iowa, where he remained until the summer of 1880, when he resigned to accept a call to a church in Geneva, Illinois.

A daughter, Mabel Winslow Barrett, was born at Winchester, Mass., February 8, 1874. His son, George Edson Barrett, died in Boston, August 15, 1875; and his son, Frank Perry Barrett, died in Boston, August 19, 1875.

JAMES EDWARD BATES. In the fall of 1873 he made a journey to California, returning the following spring by the way of Panama. In October, 1873, he was admitted, on motion of Hon. Wm. M. Evarts, a member of the Supreme Court of the United States. He has since his return resided in Cambridge, being engaged in the practice of law in Boston.

He is the author of a poem entitled Damon and Pythias, published in 1878. He is a member of the Order of Free and Accepted Masons and of the Knights of Pythias.

LORING EVERETT BECKWITH. He resided in Augusta, Me., as pastor of Christ Church, until October, 1874, when he resigned, and came to Boston. Remaining here during the winter, he removed the following April (1875) to Milford, N.H., where he remained two years in charge of the Unitarian Church in that town. Since April, 1877, he has resided in Cambridge, engaged in teaching and in lecturing upon English literature. Within the last two years, he has lectured between three hundred and three hundred and fifty times, delivering courses at the Essex Institute (Salem), winter of 1879–80, in some of the Boston schools, and in many of the neighboring towns. The subjects of the courses have been "The Literature of the Age of Elizabeth" and "The Literature of the Age of Queen Anne."

A daughter, Theodora Mary Beckwith, was born in Cambridge, April 21, 1880.

RUSSELL NEVINS BELLOWS. In October, 1865, he entered the Union Theological Seminary in New York, where he remained until May, 1867, when he went to Europe, and spent fifteen months in foreign travel, visiting Egypt, Palestine, Turkey, and Greece. In August, 1868, he returned to America, and, receiving a license to preach from the New York and Hudson River Conference of Unitarian Churches, accepted an invitation to take charge for a year of the pulpit of the Unitarian Church in Walpole, N.H. In October, 1869, he returned to New York, and started a Unitarian Mission in Brevoort Hall, in East Fifty-fourth Street. In October, 1870, being obliged by ill-health from over-work to give up preaching for a time, he accepted a position on the editorial staff of the Liberal Christian, the Unitarian journal of New York. He remained in this position five years, preaching more or less in various pulpits. On the 24th of November, 1872, he was formally ordained to the Christian ministry at the Church of the Messiah, New York. In January, 1875, he accepted an invitation to preach for six months in Willard Hall, Washington, D.C. In October, 1875, he returned to New York, and became the managing editor of the Liberal Christian. In 1877, he purchased a half-interest in the paper, improved it, and issued it as The Inquirer. In February, 1880, he accepted a call to the pastorate of the Fourth Unitarian Church of New York.

He is a member of the New England Society and the Harvard Club of New York.

He is the author of a book called The Channing Centenary in America and Great Britain (1881), and has been a constant writer to the Unitarian press.

JOHN BINNEY. He has resided in Middletown, Conn., as at the last Report, holding the position of Professor of Hebrew in the Berkeley Divinity School.

A son, Horace Binney, was born in Middletown, Conn., December 5, 1874.

JAMES THOMPSON BIXBY. In April, 1874, he closed his connection with the First Parish of Watertown, Mass., and in November of the same year received an invitation to become the pastor of the First Independent Congregational (Unitarian) Parish of Belfast, Maine, whither he removed in December. He remained as pastor of that church until November, 1878, when he resigned, and accepted an invitation to become the pastor of the Independent Congregational (Unitarian) Church at Meadville, Penn. He was also about the same time elected Professor of Religious Philosophy in the Meadville Theological School. He entered on his new duties at Meadville in January, 1879, and still remains there.

In 1876, he delivered a course of twelve lectures before the Lowell Institute (Boston), on "Physical Theories and Religious Truth."

In 1876, he published Similarities of Physical and Religious Knowledge, a work on the relations of science and religion (D. Appleton & Co.). He has also contributed various articles in the Unitarian Review (1877–78–79–80), on "Lotze," "The Pessimists," "Sources of Religion," "Mystics of the Middle Ages," "Pantheism," etc.

JOHN ADAMS BLANCHARD. He resides in Boston, as at last Report.

A daughter, Rosamond Blanchard, was born April 16, 1875. A son, Harold Blanchard, was born January 30, 1877. A son, Archibald Blanchard, was born September 14, 1880.

* CHARLES ALBERT BOWERS. He died at Clinton, Mass., October 29, 1865. See Secretary's Report, No. 2.

GEORGE CALLENDER BRACKETT. He remained in Brooklyn, N.Y., engaged in teaching, until June, 1878. During the summers, he has made various excursions to Europe and California. In January, 1879, he gave up his school in Brooklyn. He has since resided in Braintree, Mass., engaged in general study.

* CHANDLER BALCH BRAMAN. He died at Baton Rouge, La., August 15, 1868. See Secretary's Report, No. 3.

FRANKLIN LEONARD BUSH. From 1874 to 1878, he resided at Southborough, Mass., working from 1875 to 1878 as missionary of the Diocesan Board of Missions at Marlborough, Hopkinton, and Hudson. In 1878, he removed to Lenoir, N.C., having been called to the rectorship of St. James's Church in that place.

A son, Thomas Frederic Bush, was born at Southborough, Mass., October 7, 1875, and a daughter, Gertrude Leonard, was born at Southborough, April 2, 1878.

*JAMES DEARBORN BUTLER. He resided in Portsmouth, N.H., engaged in the practice of law until February, 1876, when, owing to ill-health, he was obliged to give up the active practice of his profession. He remained in Portsmouth in the hope that with rest he might soon be able to return to his work; but he gradually failed, and died at Nottingham, N.H., of consumption, November 13, 1877.

A daughter, Mary Butler, was born at Portsmouth, N.H., July 9, 1874.

At a meeting of the class, held on Commencement Day, June 26, 1878, the following resolution was adopted: —

WHEREAS, since our last meeting, death has called upon us to part with our classmate, James Dearborn Butler, we, remembering his early promise and many good and generous qualities, do now

Resolve, That we tender to his family and friends our sincere and respectful sympathy for their loss.

WILLIAM HARRISON CHADSEY. He still resides in Washington, D.C., holding the position of Assistant Examiner in the United States Patent Office.

HORACE PARKER CHANDLER. He resides in Boston (West Roxbury), being engaged in the real estate business in Boston, as at the last Report.

A son, Whitman Mitchell Chandler, was born in Boston, April 2, 1876. A daughter, Ellen Chandler, was born in Boston, April 12, 1880.

DANIEL LA FOREST CHASE. He is still engaged, as at last Report, in the manufacture of machinery in Boston. He resides in Somerville, Mass.

JOSEPH LONGFELLOW CILLEY. In 1874, he left Exeter, N.H., and removed to New York, where he became a member of the firm of Belt & Cilley, being engaged in the hide and wool trade. In November, 1879, he removed to San Francisco, where he remained, similarly engaged, until October, 1880. In the fall of 1880, he returned to New York, where he now resides, as a member of the above-mentioned firm.

RICHARD CODMAN. He resides, as at last Report, in Boston (West Roxbury), engaged in the business of superintending the decoration and furnishing of houses.

He was married at King's Chapel, Boston, April 20, 1865, to Susan Williams Sargent, daughter of Margaret Atwood (Williams) and Henry Jackson Sargent.

A daughter, Susan Sargent Codman, was born September 3, 1871. A son, Richard Codman, was born March 7, 1873. A son, Alfred Codman, was born September 3, 1874.

EDWARD RUSSELL COGSWELL. He resided in Cambridge, Mass., as at last Report, engaged in the practice of medicine, until September, 1880, when he removed to New York.

He held the position of Health Officer of Cambridge from February 1, 1878, to December 1, 1879, and was the author of a paper on the "Sanitary Condition of Cambridge," published in the Annual Report of the State Board of Health of Massachusetts. He was also a member of the School Committee of Cambridge for ten and a half years, until January 1, 1880. He is a member of the Harvard Club of New York and of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society of Boston.

A son, Edward Russell Cogswell, was born in Cambridge, November 19, 1874.

EBENEZER PUNDERSON COUCH. He resided in Brooklyn, N.Y., engaged in the practice of his profession, as a civil engineer, until about four years ago, when, owing to the death of several members of his family, he gave up his business and returned to his family home at Mystic Bridge, Conn., to be with his father, then greatly advanced in years and dependent on his care.

WILLIAM MUNROE COURTIS. He remained as Superintendent of the Wyandotte Silver Works until January, 1875, when the works passed into other hands. He was instructor in metallurgy, for a short course, at the Harvard Mining School, just before it was given up. He was appointed as General Manager of the Duncan Mine, on the north shore of Lake Superior, and held that place from June, 1875, to 1878, spending his summers up the lake and the winters in Wyandotte. From 1878 to 1879, he had charge of a complete geological and mine survey of the celebrated Silver Islet Mine on Lake Superior. In 1877, he made the first analyses of newly discovered ore from Leadville, Col., to determine its smelting qualities.

From the spring of 1879 to the fall of 1880, he has been acting as consulting metallurgist to various mining companies. He spent the spring of 1879 in Leadville, and the summer and fall in the Gunnison, putting up smelting-works at each place for the Iowa Smelting Company. He was in New Mexico during the entire year of 1880, reporting on various properties; most of the time at Silver City for the Cosette Mining Company, with which he is still consulting engineer.

He is engaged conditionally to J. R. Waller and E. S. Jaffray, of New York, as general manager of all their mining enterprises at Cerrillos, Socorro, and Silver City, New Mexico; and the work of developing their mines is now going on under his direction. If the prospecting work proves satisfactory, he expects to move his family to Socorro in the spring. He is temporarily engaged as consulting metallurgist to the Lake Valley Mining Company, New Mexico. In his mining trips, he has kept up the study of botany for amusement. In the Oro Blanco Mountains of Arizona, he found a beautiful new fern (see Bulletin Torrey Bot. Club, vol. vii., No. 5), called, in honor of Professor Gray, Notholæna Grayi. Around Silver City, he found several new flowers, one of which, Rev. Mr. Green, the botanist of that country, has called Asclepias Courtisii. He met Hodges in Silver City, and writes that "Ward, Abbot, and Cilley gave me an entertainment when in San Francisco which was one of the most pleasant events on my travels."

In 1876, he patented the "Hydraulic Riffle," an improvement in machines for saving quicksilver, gold or silver amalgam, in the waste from treating ores.

He is the author of several articles, mostly mining notes, over the signature of "Eznest" (Hungarian for "silver"), and is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

He is one of the vestrymen of St. Stephen's Church in Wyandotte, Mich.

A son, Walter Folger Courtis, was born in Wyandotte, Mich., May 8, 1878.

CHARLES HENRY COXE. He resides in Philadelphia. He was engaged in the insurance business until early in 1879. Since that time, he has been occupied in private teaching.

He was a member of the Board of Trustees of the First Congregational Society of Unitarian Christians in Philadelphia, and its Secretary from July, 1871, to May, 1878. He was elected a member of the Penn Club in 1875. He was also elected a companion of the First Class of the military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, May 7, 1879. In 1875, he took an active part as a speaker for the Municipal Reform party in Philadelphia.

GEORGE GLOVER CROCKER. He resides in Boston, engaged in the practice of his profession as counsellor at law and conveyancer.

During the years 1877 and 1878, he held the position of Secretary of the Republican State Committee. He was elected, in the fall of 1879, as a member of the Massachusetts State Senate for 1880, and re-elected in 1880 to the State Senate of 1881. During both of these years, he was the Chairman of the Committee on Railroads and a member of the Committee on the Judiciary and of the Committee on Rules and Orders. * CHARLES WILLARD HAGAR. From the time of the last Report to 1878, he resided in Boston, engaged in business as a paper-dealer. One who knew him well writes, in reply to the Secretary's request for facts as to his last illness, as follows: —

"His life was not filled with incidents which would be as interesting to the general public as to those who knew and loved him best. But if faithfulness to duty and devotion to kindred, especially to an invalid sister and her family, can make a life remarkable, his indeed is one of the most remarkable, and is worthy of loving and sacred remembrance. From 1874 to 1878, his cares, aside from his business, were divided between the home of his parents in Boston and that of his sister in Dorchester, doing everything in his power to lighten the burdens which weighed so heavily on all. From 1878 to the end of his life, his great kindness of heart showed itself in the efforts he was constantly making for the happiness of others, and especially those endeared to him by the ties of kindred: while his strict and careful attention to business won him a high place in the esteem and respect of his mercantile friends and associates. The dimness of eyesight, with which he had been troubled for some years, caused him to shrink from contact with strangers, so that he necessarily led a more secluded life than would probably have been his choice: but, to his nearest friends, his later years have been one constant benediction. One little incident will serve to illustrate his wonderfully retentive memory. Only a few days before his death, his little nephew, who had been attending the Latin School a little more than a year, was translating his Latin lesson aloud in a room adjoining the one in which he was lying sick. He overheard the translation, and corrected a slight error as readily as if he had the book in his hand and was not suffering from extreme bodily pain."

His health gradually failed, and he died of Bright's disease of the kidneys, in Boston, May 12, 1880.

He was a member of the Joseph Warren Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons and of the St. Andrew's Royal Arch

Chapter. He also joined the Forty-fourth Regiment Association shortly before his death. On the announcement of his death at the Joseph Warren Lodge, resolutions expressing deep regret at his death and warmly setting forth his many good qualities and pure and unselfish life were presented and unanimously adopted.

At a meeting of the Class, held in Cambridge, June 30, 1880, the following resolutions were adopted : —

Resolved, That the death of Charles Willard Hagar will be long felt by us who were his classmates; that his ability, conscientiousness, and fidelity to duty won our deep respect, while the gentleness and courtesy of his manners, his simplicity of character and kindness of heart, endeared him to all who knew him.

Resolved, That we respectfully tender our sympathy to the family of our deceased classmate in their affliction.

* CHARLES HENRY HILDRETH. He resided in Elizabeth, N.J., as at the last Report, engaged in the practice of law in New York until the spring of 1876, when his health began to fail. He spent the following winter at the South, without, however, deriving any especial benefit. The summer of 1877 he spent among the Adirondacks, and his health seemed slightly to improve. He was very anxious to go to Europe; and accordingly, by the advice of his physician, he sailed November 20, 1877. A short time was spent in London and Paris; and he then went directly to Davos Platz, in Switzerland. He failed rapidly, however, and died there of consumption, March 10, 1878.

At a meeting of the Class, held at Cambridge, June 26, 1878, the following resolutions were adopted : —

Whereas the Divine Ruler has, in his infinite wisdom, called from this life our classmate and friend, Charles H. Hildreth,

Resolved, That, associated with his name, we hold in memory a manly integrity of character and a firm allegiance to a high sense of duty, a careful scholarship that won our respect, and a genial nature that endeared him to our hearts.

Resolved, That we sympathize most heartily with the family of the deceased in their bereavement, and would tender to them these resolutions, as an expression of our sorrow and a testimony to his worth.

*SPENCER DAVIDSON. He remained in Baltimore from the spring of 1861 until March, 1863, when he sailed, in pursuit of health, to South America, where he landed at Montevideo, March 28. He sailed May 17 for India, and landed June 14 at Cape Town in Africa, where the Fourth of July was celebrated by him and other Americans in the town. Touching at the Island of Mauritius, September 24, he visited the graves of Paul and Virginia. He then went to Ceylon and India, returning to Baltimore in the autumn of 1864. Owing to a severe fall, he was obliged in 1865 to have his left leg amputated, an operation which was performed without the use of anæsthetics, and which he bore without a groan. He then settled in Stanton, Va., where he practised law until 1872, when, owing to failing health, he was obliged to give up his practice, and removed to Washington, where for four years he held a clerkship in the Pension Office. His health gradually failed; and he died of consumption, in Washington, April 17, 1877.

He was married in Baltimore, September 9, 1869, to Laura Lee Burwell, daughter of Susan (Lee) and Philip Carter Lewis Burwell, of Winchester, Va.

* HORACE BINNEY HARE. He resided in Philadelphia, engaged in the practice of medicine, until June, 1874, when he sailed for Europe, in order to pursue his studies in Leipzig, Germany, devoting himself especially to the study of medical chemistry. On his return to Philadelphia, in the fall of 1876, he entered upon the practice of his specialty, and was appointed Instructor in Chemistry in the Episcopal Academy, and lectured also upon similar topics at other institutions.

He was appointed, February 6, 1877, Professor of Hygiene in the Auxiliary Faculty of Medicine, in the University of Pennsylvania. In March, 1877, he was elected Pathological Chemist to the University Hospital, and lecturer on Pathological Chemistry in the Medical Department of the University. He was also elected, in September, 1877, lecturer on Chemistry at the Franklin Institute.

His health frequently interrupted his work; and, in the winter of 1877, he was sent away upon a long voyage, in the hope of arresting very serious symptoms of pulmonary consumption. He went to California, thence to Australia, and made several trips up and down the Pacific Coast, enjoying comparatively good health while at sea, but failing as soon as he approached land. In August, 1878, he embarked with his wife, two children, and a friend, Dr. Ingham, upon a yacht in which they sailed to the Mediterranean, returning in the early winter to the West Indies. He died on board his yacht in the harbor of St. Thomas, March 21, 1879. He was buried in the cemetery of the Episcopal Church of St. James the Less, in Philadelphia.

*JAMES NEVILLE HEDGES. He died at Circleville, Ohio, February 16, 1863. See Secretary's Report, No. 2.

FRANKLIN THEODORE HOWE. He resides, as at the last Report, in Washington, D.C.

He held the position of Chief Clerk of the Board of Public Works, until the whole territorial government of the District was legislated out of existence by Congress in June, 1874. He was tendered the position of Chief Clerk under the new government, which he accepted and organized under what is now known as the Engineer's Office of the District of Columbia. This position he held until May, 1876, when he went to Philadelphia as the correspondent of the New York Graphic during the Centennial Exhibition. In September, he was obliged to give up his connection with the Graphic, on account of severe sickness in his family; and he returned to Washington and accepted a clerkship in the Treasury Department. He is at present Chief of Division of Accounts in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in that department.

He has done occasional newspaper and magazine work, and to a certain extent resumed the practice of medicine. During the time the District of Columbia enjoyed the right of suffrage, he engaged quite actively in politics, and was the Corresponding Secretary of the Young Men's Republican Club, of which he was the principal founder. He was the Secretary of the Citizens' Committee that had charge of the arrangements for the celebration of the inauguration of President Hayes. He has also taken an active part in the temperance movement, having been connected with the Sons of Temperance and having held the office of Grand Scribe. He was one of the originators of the Washington Choral Society, an organization composed entirely of American gentlemen, after the manner of the German male singing societies, and also of the Philharmonic Society for mixed voices.

CLASS CIRCULAR.

The Class Circular, under date of March 1, 1881, was sent to all the surviving members of the Class. No answer was received from Owen among the graduates; nor from Bullard, Cutler, Francis, Griffin, Hammond, Hawley, Stanfield, and Wilson among the non-graduates.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS.

Class Song.

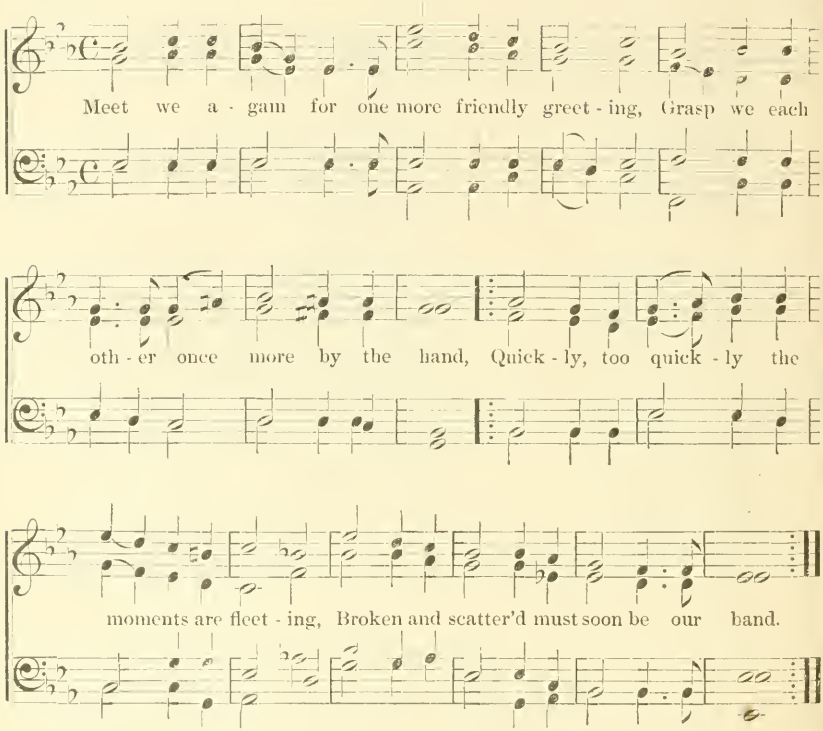
Music Selected by R. N. BELLOWS, Chorister. Words by F. T. WASHBURN.



Meet we a - gain for one more friendly greet - ing, Grasp we each oth - er once more by the hand, Quick - ly, too quick - ly the moments are fleet - ing, Broken and scatter'd must soon be our band.

Friends have we found here, whose friendship shall never Cease till the current of life flow no more;
Seas may divide us, but ne'er shall they sever
Hearts that beat true to our own Sixty-four.

Fondly we think on the place we are leaving,
Boldly we seek what the future may give:
Knowledge and strength we have here been receiving,
God grant us all that we know how to live.

Onward we'll march, then, with shoulder to shoulder,
Ready to meet all that life has in store,
Blood leaping quicker and hearts beating bolder,
As we remember our dear Sixty-four.

FOURTH CLASS SUPPER.

June 23, 1874.— The Class Supper was held at Taft's Hotel, Point Shirley. The steam-tug "C. H. Hersey" left the end of Long Wharf at half-past six o'clock. After a pleasant sail among the islands, the Class landed at Point Shirley, where supper was served at eight o'clock.

Richardson presided, and Kennedy occupied the opposite end of the table. A blessing was asked by Cutter. An excellent dinner of fish and game was served; and after the coffee the following ode, written by Horton, was sung. Waterman acted as Chorister: —

ODE.

AIR, — "Fair Harvard."

Once again by the walls of Fair Harvard we meet,
Mater Alma still loved as of yore!
Old comrades with heartfelt rejoicing to greet,
And remember old days now no more;
To grasp each old friend by the hand, and to tell
How we've fared in the warfare of life,
Since we broke our encampment, bade boyhood farewell,
And as men took our place in the strife.

For fair Summer again in her brightness has come,
And with garlands of June crowns the year;
See! the elms all in leaf and the roses in bloom!
Hark! the bobolink's song sounding clear!
On the fêtes of Fair Harvard, earth's holiday smiles,
With Nature her pulse beats in tune;
And her sons throughout earth — nay, though Circe beguiles —
Their hearts are with Harvard in June.

But, old friends, though we're met round the board to be gay,
A new earnestness tempers our glee;
For a decade of History 's passed since the day
When as Seniors we circled the Tree.
And of threescore and ten years the Psalmist allots,
Sixty-four for us all meant a score;
And, with shears in hand, Atropos measures the knots,
And ten more go with Seventy-four.

Ah! and with them went faces we miss here to-day,
True hearts that lie under the sod;
But they call us, "Take manfully upward your way,
Follow close by the standards of God!"
Yes! life 's still before us, there 's wrong to be scorned
And there 's right to be done as before;
And days full of promise as bright as e'er dawned,
When our years had not numbered a score.

An eloquent speech was made by Lyman, who was with us, and who spoke for our Southern classmates; and Eldridge made a happy reply in behalf of those from the North.

About eleven o'clock, the Class embarked on board the "C. H. Hersey," and reached the city about midnight.

TWENTY-FIRST MEETING.

June 24, 1874.— Hollis 20 was secured for the use of the Class, and the usual refreshments were provided.

The business meeting was held at twelve o'clock. Present: Appleton, Barrett, Binney, Blanchard, Bush, Butler, Chandler, Chase, Cilley, Codman, Cogswell, Coxe, Cummings, Cutter, Dorr, Elliot, Emery, Fabens, Fernald, Fitz, Hagar, Haven, Heath, Horne, Huntington, Johnson, Kennedy, Lyman, Merriam, Palmer, Pierce, Read, Reed, Richardson, Robeson, Robins, Seaver, Sinclair, Sprague, Walley, Waterman,— 41.

Cummings presided. The records of the last meeting were read and accepted. The Secretary presented his Annual Report in a printed form. In the absence of the Chorister, Waterman acted as such; and, the Class Song having been sung, the meeting adjourned.

FIFTH CLASS SUPPER.

June 29, 1875.— The Class Supper was held at the American House at seven o'clock. The members present were Bellows, Bixby, Brackett, Chandler, Couch, Crocker, Cummings, Eldridge, Emery, Fabens, Fitz, Flagg, Gorham, Hagar, Heath, Howe, E. R., Johnson, Kennedy, Morris, Munroe, Neal, Pierce, Read, Reed, Richardson, Seaver, Sinclair, Sprague, Stevens, Waterman,— 30.

Richardson presided. A blessing was asked by Bellows. After the dinner, the following ode, written by Appleton, was sung, the Class Chorister, Bellows, leading: —

ODE.

AIR,— "Fair Harvard."

Once more, brothers dear, do we hail the glad hour
That calls us from homes scattered wide,
In the bright days of June, with their verdure and flower,
Alma Mater to greet in her pride.
And while to our mother our homage we pay,
As sons that are loyal and true,
To each brother our love let us pledge here to-day,
While the friendships of old we renew.

The friendships of old, how they throng to the heart,
As we gaze on each face round the board,
And the mem'ries of youth, with the joy they impart,
Are recalled by a look, by a word!
And with them come thoughts of those that are gone,
The loved whom we meet no more here,
The battle of life bravely fought by each one,—
Be it ours their names to revere!

And now, with the hopes of the future in view,
Be our aims ever lofty and pure:
Knowing well the reward that to virtue is due,
Our toil cannot fail to secure.
Then, brothers, once more go we forth into life,
Hearts braver than ever before,
Our watchword for aye in the thick of the strife,—
Fair Harvard and dear "Sixty-Four!"

The toast to "The Class" was responded to by Eldridge. Impromptu speeches and songs filled up the rest of the evening; and the festivities were closed about midnight, with "Auld Lang Syne."

TWENTY-SECOND MEETING.

June 30, 1875.— Hollis 24 was secured for the use of the Class, and the usual refreshments were provided.

The business meeting was held at twelve o'clock. Present: Bellows, Chandler, Cogswell, Couch, Crocker, Cummings, Cutter, Elliot, Emery, Fabens, Fisk, Fitz, Flagg, Gorham, Greenough, Hagar, Heath, Howe, E. R., Huntington, Kennedy, Morris, Neal, Pierce, Reed, Richardson, Seaver, Sedgwick, Shaw, Sinclair, Sprague, Warren,— 31.

Seaver presided. The records of the last meeting were read and accepted. The Secretary read his annual report. The Class Song was sung under the leadership of the Class Chorister, Bellows; and the meeting adjourned.

SIXTH CLASS SUPPER.

June 27, 1876.—The annual Class Supper was held at the American House, at seven o'clock, the Class assembling half an hour previous. Present: Chandler, Cogswell, Crocker, Cummings, Cutter, Dorr, Eldridge, Elliot, Fitz, Goddard, Greenough, Hagar, Howe, E. R., Johnson, Kennedy, Merriam, Munroe, Neal, Page, Pierce, Reed, Richardson, Sinclair, Sprague, Stevens, Waterman,— 26.

Richardson presided, and a blessing was asked by Cutter. After dinner, the following ode, written by Bixby, was sung, Waterman acting as Chorister: —

ODE.

AIR,—"Fair Harvard."

Once more, Sixty-four, thy sons honor thy year,—
Year dearest of all to each heart.
Once more reunited, with song and good cheer,
We'll forget that we e'er had to part
Come, classmates, clasp hands, the circle renew;
Wave, mem'ry, thy magical wand.
Days of old, live again; for our hearts shall be true,
Close as ever, Fair Harvard, thy bond.

Though fondly our thoughts would encamp with the past,
Ever forward is Life's stern command.
Scattered wide, we march onward; but firm to the last,
Through all change, may our brotherhood stand.
As thy hand, Alma Mater, equipped us for strife,
Let thy honor our warfare inspire.
To the Truth and the Right shall be sacred each life,
Purer burn every year our heart's fire.

The toast of "The Class" was responded to by Eldridge, and that of "Fair Harvard" by Page.

The festivities were brought to a close about midnight, the Class uniting in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

TWENTY-THIRD MEETING.

June 28, 1876.— Holworthy 21 was secured for the use of the Class, and the usual refreshments were provided.

The annual meeting was held at twelve o'clock. Present: Chandler, Chase, Cogswell, Crocker, Cummings, Cutter, Dorr, Eldridge, Eliot, Fabens, Fitz, Goddard, Greenough, Hagar, Heath, Howe, E. R., Kennedy, Munroe, Neal, Page, Reed, Richardson, Sedgwick, Sinclair, Sprague, Stevens, Waterman.— 27.

Eldridge was chosen Chairman. The records of the last meeting were read and accepted. The Secretary presented his annual report. On motion of Greenough, it was voted that the subject of a memorial window in Alumni Hall be referred to the Class Committee, with directions to report at a future meeting.

The Class Song was sung, Elliot acting as Chorister; and the meeting adjourned.

SEVENTH CLASS SUPPER.

June 26, 1877.—The annual Class Supper was held at Young's Hotel at seven o'clock, the Class assembling at half-past six o'clock. Present: Beckwith, Chandler, Chase, Crocker, Cummings, Dorr, Emery, Fabens, Fitz, Howe, E. R., Johnson, Munroe, Neal, Read, Reed, Richardson, Seaver, Sinclair, Sprague, Stevens, Waterman, — 21.

Richardson presided. A blessing was asked by Beckwith. Waterman acted as Chorister. After dinner, the following ode, written by Cummings, was sung: —

ODE.

AIR,—"Fair Harvard."

Aside for the time worldly burdens we cast,
Sons of Harvard of dear Sixty-four;
On the journey of life, a new milestone is passed,
And we're gathered together once more.
Scattered wide on life's highway, our numbers are few,
But the closer and firmer we stand;
And we know that the heart is still loyal and true,
By the grasp of the strong, manly hand.

Gone by is our spring-time so careless and fair,—
At Harvard we ended our May:
We must up and be doing, and manfully bear
The burden and heat of the day;
For the full tide of summer is over us now,
And tares ever grow with the grain;
But for vigilant care and the sweat of our brow,
We shall long for the harvest in vain.

While with strength, then, the soul mutual friendship imbues,
Our pledge we renew here to-night,
Our vigorous manhood with vigor to use
In the service of truth and the right;
And, inspired by the past, we'll toil on while we may,
Ever true, Alma Mater, to thee,
With cheerfulness doing the work of to-day,
And with hope for the days yet to be.

The usual impromptu speeches were made, and songs were sung; and about midnight the supper was brought to a close, the Class uniting in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

TWENTY-FOURTH MEETING.

June 27, 1877.—Holworthy 18 was secured for the use of the Class, and the usual refreshments were provided.

The annual meeting was held at twelve o'clock. Present: Beckwith, Chandler, Chase, Cogswell, Crocker, Cummings, Cutter, Derby, Dorr, Eldridge, Emery, Fabens, Fisk, Fitz, Greenough, Hagar, Heath, Huntington, Johnson, Merriam, Munroe, Neal, Read, Richardson, Seaver, Sedgwick, Sinclair, Sprague, Stevens, Waterman, Wildes,—31.

Read was chosen Chairman. The records of the last meeting were read and accepted, and the Secretary read his annual report. The Class Song was then sung, Read acting as Chorister; and the meeting adjourned.

EIGHTH CLASS SUPPER.

June 25, 1878.—The Class Supper was held at the American House at half-past six o'clock, the Class assembling at six o'clock. Present: Brackett, Chandler, Cogswell, Crocker, Cummings, Dorr, Eldridge, Emery, Fabens, Fitz, Goddard, Gorham, Hagar, Howe, E. R., Munroe, Neal, Read, Reed, Richardson, Seaver, Sinclair, Sprague, Stevens, Waterman, Wildes,—25.

Richardson presided. After the supper was served, the Class Song was sung, Waterman acting as Chorister. The rest of the evening was filled with impromptu speeches and songs; and about midnight the Class united in singing "Auld Lang Syne," and the festivities were brought to a close.

TWENTY-FIFTH MEETING.

June 26, 1878.—Holworthy 23 was secured for the use of the Class, and the usual refreshments were provided.

The annual meeting was held at twelve o'clock. Present: Brackett, Chandler, Chase, Cogswell, Crocker, Cummings, Dean, Dorr, Eldridge, Emery, Fitz, Gorham, Hagar, Horne, Howe, E. R., Neal, Read, Richardson, Robeson, Robins, Seaver, Sedgwick, Sinclair, Sprague, Waterman, Wells,—26.

Eldridge was chosen Chairman. The records of the last meeting were read and accepted. The Secretary then read his annual report, and announced the deaths of Hildreth and Butler.

Horne, Eldridge, and Hagar were appointed a committee to draw up resolutions in reference to the death of Hildreth. Cummings, Cogswell, and Chandler were appointed a committee to take similar action with reference to the death of Butler.

The former committee reported a series of resolutions (see page 23), which were unanimously adopted. The latter committee were allowed to report to the Class Secretary at a future time. (For the resolution which they reported, see page 13.)

The Class Song was then sung, under the leadership of Seaver; and the meeting adjourned.

NINTH CLASS SUPPER.

June 24, 1879.— The annual Class Supper was held at Young's Hotel.

The Class met at six o'clock. Present: Atwood, Bellows, Brackett, Chandler, Cilley, Cogswell, Crocker, Cummings, Dean, Dorr, Eldridge, Emery, Fernald, Gove, Horton, Howe, E. R., Kennedy, Munroe, Neal, Pierce, Reed, Richardson, Seaver, Shaw, Sinclair, Sprague, Stevens, Waterman, Wildes,— 29.

The dinner was served at half-past six o'clock. Richardson presided. A blessing was asked by Bellows. The health of the Class was drunk in some Burgundy, presented by Pierce. The following ode written by Pierce was sung, under the leadership of the Class Chorister, Bellows: —

ODE.

AIR,—"Fair Harvard."

Once again in the faith and the friendship of yore,
While the wine flashes amber and red,
Will we join the glad chorus of old "Sixty-four,"
With a reverent thought of the dead;
For the cradle hath rocked, and the grave opened door,
And the tears of our hearts have been shed
For the hopes and the grief of our loved "Sixty-four,"
And the joys all too hastily sped.

When the trumpet of strife in our hearing doth sound,
And the battle grows weary and long,
And our vision grows dim, we will yet look around
For the friends of our youth in the throng;
For the battle of life, and the prize that we win,
And the triumph of right over wrong,
All shall add to the peace and joy reigning within,
And the strength and the life of our song.

There were several impromptu speeches and songs; and, after singing "Auld Lang Syne," the meeting broke up about midnight.

TWENTY-SIXTH MEETING.

June 25, 1879.— Holworthy 21 was secured for the use of the Class, and the usual refreshments were provided.

The business meeting was held at twelve o'clock. Present: Atwood, Beckwith, Bellows, Binney, Chandler, Chase, Cilley, Cummings, Dean, Dorr, Emery, Fabens, Fernald, Flagg, Gove, Greenough, Hagar, Horton, Howe, E. R., Kennedy, Munroe, Neal, Olney, Read, Richardson, Robins, Seaver, Sedgwick, Sinclair, Sprague, Warren, Waterman, Wildes,— 33.

Seaver was chosen Chairman. The records of the last meeting were read and accepted. The Secretary read his annual report, in which he announced the death of Merriam.

It was voted that a committee of three be appointed to draw up resolutions in reference to Merriam's death. The Chairman appointed as the committee Wildes, Atwood, and Kennedy. They subsequently reported a series of resolutions, which were adopted. (See page 27.)

The Class Song was sung, under the leadership of the Chorister, Bellows ; and the meeting adjourned.

TWENTY-SEVENTH MEETING.

June 30, 1880.— Holworthy 22 was secured for the use of the Class, and the usual refreshments were provided.

The annual meeting was held at twelve o'clock. Present: Beckwith, Brackett, Chandler, Chase, Cogswell, Crocker, Cutter, Dean, Dorr, Eldridge, Emery, Fabens, Fitz, Greenough, Howe, E. R., Reed, Robeson, Seaver, Sprague, Waterman,— 20.

The meeting was called to order, in the absence of the Class

Secretary, by Sprague. Brackett was chosen Chairman. The records of the last meeting were read and accepted. The Acting Secretary, Sprague, announced the deaths of Fisk and Hagar. The Chairman appointed Reed, Cutter, and Howe, E. R., a committee to draw up resolutions on the death of Fisk. The committee subsequently reported resolutions (see page 19), which, after some appropriate remarks by Reed, were adopted.

The Chairman appointed Eldridge, Greenough, and Chandler a committee to prepare resolutions in reference to the death of Hagar. The committee subsequently reported the resolutions (see page 22), which, after some remarks by Eldridge, were adopted.

On motion of Greenough, it was voted that the Acting Secretary be requested to make inquiries regarding the situation of Fisk's family, and that the Class Committee be authorized to appropriate for their benefit any portion of the income of the Class Fund which they may deem advisable.

The Class Song was then sung, and the meeting adjourned.

CLASS FUND.

The Class Fund, a financial statement of which is annexed, amounts to $3,030. All the graduated members of the Class are subscribers, with the exception of ten. Five of those who did not graduate with the Class have also generously contributed. The interest from the investment of this fund is the only source of revenue at the disposal of the Class Committee with which to defray the annual expenses of the Class. These expenses include the greater part of the cost of the Class Suppers, and the entire cost of the refreshments furnished on Commencement Days, the printing of the Class Reports, the advertising of the Class Meetings, the preparation and mailing of Class Circulars, etc.

The publication of the Report this year will exhaust the income.

Of course, in the future, a smaller rate of interest will be received from the fund. At the same time, the Committee desire to make more liberal arrangements for the Class on Commencement Days, and would gladly reduce the cost to the members of the Class Suppers. They also desire to save something each year to enable them to publish at shorter intervals the Class Reports.

To accomplish these objects, wholly or in part, the Class Fund must be increased. The Committee earnestly hope that some of those who have never been subscribers will feel able now to make contributions; and they also believe that there are many of the former contributors who will respond to this suggestion of the needs of the Class, and generously increase the fund, so that the Committee may in the future defray acceptably all the class expenses without making assessments upon the members.
